

Labour Market Information

The Education & Skills Funding Agency (ESFA), delivers the Government's National Find an apprenticeship service, the National Careers Service, and publishes a range of information about the labour market.

Labour Market Information advises you on current trends within the job market at a national, regional and local level. Information provided includes the most current information, regarding pay: by occupations, industry and regions plus it provides real data on gender and diversity make up.

It can help you discover where the job opportunities are, the sectors, occupations and locations you need to look out for, and help you identify the skills you might need to develop in the future. Click on the links below to discover more.

Sources of Labour Market Information

The National Careers Service Explore Careers contains information about the types of jobs available in different areas, which industries are growing, which need staff to replace those leaving and the skills which these employers will be looking for. The National Careers Service Job Profiles contain information on the skills and qualifications required for over 750 jobs. You can also find out about the work involved, salaries you and career prospects.

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) is responsible for collecting and publishing statistics related to the economy, population and society at national, regional and local levels.

Nomis is a service provided by the Office for National Statistics, ONS, to give you free access to the most detailed and up-to-date UK labour market statistics from official sources.

Careersbox is the national careers film library, a free careers resource showing hundreds of real people doing real jobs.

icould which is a small, dynamic charity, providing career inspiration and information for young people. It shows what is possible in work and offer different ways to think about careers through free access to over 1000 personal video stories, detailed job information, plus practical tips, insight and advice.